

i will go

soul, the fullness in her stare first of many reasons we are glow, her color fills the air it's hard to exist when we're afar

she proclaims
i will go
won't you stay
i will go for you, go
i will. no
time will show
i will go
for you stay

grow, positively pained bending not to break from being strong go, letting go -- or pausing to refrain withered like the trees among the storm what remains?

i will go
won't you stay
i will go
please, please stay
i will go
time will show

it's more than I can bare, were sailing through this tear once again knowing how this could end the ebb and flow of us
we grow away, yet
you still see me

falling past the pieces we are counting fear

i will, go for you, stay
letting go
